

Project Engineer UK (m/f/d)

Perceptron develops, produces and sells non-contact measurement, inspection and robot guidance solutions for industrial and commercial applications. The Company also offers Value-Added Services such as training and customer support services. Perceptron's Technology Products provide innovative solutions for scanning and inspection, serving industrial, trade and consumer applications.

Perceptron has its European headquarters in Munich and is also represented in the UK with a registered office.

Job Profile:

- On-site integration of Perceptron's laser-based measurement equipment in automotive manufacturing plants, from system installation to buy-off
- Full project management, incl. time reporting and documentation
- Ongoing field support of installations
- Support of customer maintenance team during on-site troubleshooting
- Extensive travel to various automotive plants throughout UK and potential world wide travel
- Support of installations in mainland Europe when necessary

Personal Profile:

- Engineer or engineering technician – mechanical engineering, electrical engineering or automation engineering (or comparable qualification)
- Knowledge and first experience with
 - Robot programming (common industrial robots)
 - Industrial communication systems and PLCs
- Job experience in the automotive industry (manufacturer or first tier supplier)
- Driver's license
- Willingness to travel

Perceptron offers:

- Salary package with benefits
- Company pension scheme
- Car allowance and fuel cards for business and private use
- Overtime account
- Business and private accident insurance
- Supplements for late night and week-end work
- Laptop and mobile phone
- Work from Home office

Have we sparked your interest? jobs@perceptron.de
Perceptron GmbH, Wamslerstr. 2-4, 81829 München
Human Resources, Mrs. Heike Herbrich (089- 96098 114)

www.perceptron.com

